RESEARCH PROMOTION

2.01 The most important responsibility of the Council is to promote research in social sciences. A number of schemes are being pursued to fulfil this responsibility.

2.02 Survey of Research in Social Sciences : A major project undertaken by the ICSSR soon after its inception was to conduct a Survey of Research in Social Sciences with a view to identifying trends and research gaps, determining priorities and selecting programmes for special promotional effort in the future. The scheme made satisfactory progress during the year. Three volumes on Economics (Agriculture, Vol. III, Agriculture, Vol. IV and Industry, Vol. V) and one volume on Public Administration (Vol. II) were published. Action on the Second Survey of Research in the field of Psychology and Geography was also initiated during the year.

2.03 Priority in Research : During the year, priority areas in Geography and Public Administration were identified. These have been published in the ICSSR Newsletter Volume VI, Nos. 3&4, October 1975-March 1976 and comments from interested social scientists have been invited. These would be taken into account and the priorities for research in these disciplines would be finalized in due course.

2.04 Research Projects and Programmes : At the beginning of the year, 71 proposals were pending for decision. During the year, 304 proposals were received. Of these 375 proposals, 104 were sanctioned (involving an estimated expenditure of Rs. 22.95 lakhs) and 165 were rejected, leaving a balance of 106 proposals pending at the end of 1975-76.*

2.05 A list of the 104 research projects sanctioned during the year is given in Appendix II. Since 497 research projects had been sanctioned earlier, the total number of research projects sanctioned up to 31st March 1976 is 601.

2.06 The progress of these 601 research projects has been indicated below :

(a) Projects transferred from the Planning Commission : Of the 45 projects transferred from the Planning Commission, final reports have been received for 43, and reports of two projects are under revision or examination.

(b) Research Projects sanctioned during 1969-70 : Of the 13 projects sanctioned, final reports of 10 have been received and have been accepted; one report is under examination and revision. In one case, the report has not yet been received and in another, the sanction has been cancelled.

(c) Research Projects sanctioned during 1970-71 : Of the 73 projects sanctioned, final reports of 48 have been received by the Council. Of these, 46 reports have been accepted. Preliminary draft reports have been received in two cases which are under examination and revision. Five sanctions were cancelled and in the remaining 20 cases, the reports are awaited.

(d) Research Projects sanctioned during 1971-72 : Out of the 103 projects sanctioned, reports of 49 have been received by the Council. Of these, 46 reports have been accepted. In three cases preliminary draft reports have been received and are under examination and revision. Five sanctions have been cancelled and for the remaining 49 projects, the reports are yet to be received.

* This number includes 31 projects sanctioned under various Sponsored Research Programmes vide para 2.16.

and in the remaining 46 cases the reports are yet to be received.

(f) Research Projects sanctioned during 1973-74 : Of the 88 projects sanctioned, final reports of 28 have been received. Of these, 11 reports have been accepted and the others are under examination and revision. Sanctions in four cases have been cancelled and in the remaining 56 cases, reports are yet to be received.

2.07 Research Programmes : A research programme is a series of studies spread over three to five years on a central theme of relevance and significance. The idea is to develop such programmes of research in selected university departments and research institutions. This scheme was to have been initiated during 1973-74, but due to paucity of financial resources available it has been decided to keep it in abeyance.

2.16 Sponsored Research Programmes : One of the major recommendations of the ICSSR Review Committee headed by Dr. Malcolm S. Adiseshiah (1973-74) was that the Council should sponsor research in selected areas of significance and priority. This recommendation was accepted by the Council and it was decided that sponsored research should be promoted in the following areas : (1) Poverty and Unemployment (2) Integrated Area Development (3) Law and Social Change (4) Muslims (5) Governmental System and Development (6) Education (7) Area Planning (8) Social Unrest and Violence

(9) Studies in Urbanization (10) Area Studies on Asia (11) Status of Women (12) Political System and Processes (13) Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (14) Public Distribution System, and (15) Social Aspects of Science and Technology.

It was estimated that the programmes will extend over a period of five years and each would involve an expenditure of Rs. 10 lakhs. Based on the Council's financial projections for the Fifth Plan period, the original intention was to launch all the 15 programmes simultaneously. However, the actual annual financial allocations being substantially less than what was envisaged, it has been decided to launch the programmes in phases with the understanding that once a programme is taken up it would last for five years.

In the first phase, the following programmes were taken up :

3. Public Distribution System
4. Social Aspects of Science and Technology and

1. Governmental System and Development
2. Status of Women
3. Law and Social Change

5. Area Studies on Asia

Preparatory work for the third phase is expected to be started during 1976-77 which will cover the following programmes :

3. Area Planning
4. Social Unrest and Violence, and

DATA ARCHIVES

5.01 Acquisition and Organization of Data Sets : The ICSSR Data Archives made considerable progress in acquiring and organizing data sets created out of ICSSR funded projects with a view to making them available to the academic community for further exploration and comparative analysis. During the year under review, the following data sets were acquired :

(a) Data Sets of the ICSSR Funded Projects

1. Dr. Kamta Prasad, "Employment Potential of Selected Manufacturing Industries in U.P."
2. Dr. Yogendra K. Malik, "A Study of Hindi Speaking Intellectuals".

1. Operational Research Group, Baroda, "All India Family Planning Survey".
2. Operational Research Group, Baroda, "All India Readership Survey".
3. Reserve Bank of India, "Study of Small Farmers".

5.02 Not all the data sets acquired by the ICSSR Data Archives are in machine-readable form. In order to make these data sets serviceable, the Data Archives operate a scheme to transfer such data on IBM punch cards and/or computer magnetic tapes. The following data sets were either received in machine-readable form or transferred to punch cards by the Data Archives :

1. Voting Behaviour in West Bengal 1972.
2. Employment Potential of Selected Manufacturing Industries in U.P.
3. Background Factors of Prison Inmates.
4. Optimum Utilization for Educational Expenditure in Gujarat.
5. Problems of Retired People in Greater Bombay.
6. Educational Problems of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes.

5.03 Another new activity started by the Data Archives during the year was the documentation of data sets already acquired and their publication in the form of brochures from time to time. The brochures will contain the objectives of the project, its scope, research design, geographical coverage, abstract of content, etc. The documentation of the following data sets was completed during the year under review :

1. Voting Behaviour in West Bengal, 1972.
2. Employment Potential of Selected Manufacturing Industries in U.P.
3. Background Factors of Prison Inmates.

5.04 Data Processing Facilities at Different Centres : Another new scheme initiated by the ICSSR during the year was provision of data processing facilities in research institutes located in different parts of the country. A beginning of this programme has been made with the supply of data processing equipment and software to the Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Bombay.

5.05 Soon after its inception, the Data Archives had addressed itself to the important question of ensuring better quality of data collection, tabulation and accessibility to data produced by large scale official data producing agencies. Accordingly, various Working Groups had been set up to ascertain the type and magnitude of their data holding, steps needed for the preservation of such data, etc. Due to budgetary cuts, however, the negotiations with the organizations concerned had to be slowed down. The proposed acquisition of the data of the National Sample Survey Organization collected through its first nineteen rounds had also to be dropped as it was felt that the organization of this massive data was beyond the manpower and material resources likely to be available to the Council in the foreseeable future.

5.06 National Register of Social Scientists: The Indian Council of Social Science Research has decided to compile a National Register of Social Scientists in India. This will fill a void in the important area of basic and comprehensive information about the Indian social science community. The Register is being compiled as on 31st March 1976 and is proposed to be up-dated from time to time. Besides being an important source of useful information about Indian social scientists, their background, research interests, contributions, etc., it will at the same time help in assessing (1) availability of professional manpower in the field of social sciences at any given time, (2) its expansion over the years, (3) its distribution among different disciplines and parts of the country, and (4) the manner in which it has been engaged in academic pursuits for the promotion of social sciences. It is obvious that this exercise would also help in better utilization of professional manpower in the country.

5.07 Given these objectives, the National Register of Social Scientists would cover scientists engaged in teaching and/or research in all the disciplines falling under the rubric of social sciences. The following categories of social scientists would be included in the National Register : (1) Teachers of social sciences in universities (or equivalent institutions) and in affiliated colleges, (2) Social scientists working in recognized research institutions, (3) Social scientists working in governmental and semi-governmental organizations, (4) Persons engaged in social science research in private industry or business, and (5) Persons who do not fall under any of the above categories but who have made meaningful contribution to the field of social sciences through research or published work.

5.08 The Indian Council of Social Science Research is approaching the social scientists through their institutions for supply of information for the National Register. The project is expected to be completed in about two years at an estimated cost of Rs. 2 lakhs.

REGIONAL CENTRES

8.01 The Council had earlier set up three Regional Centres at Calcutta, Bombay and Hyderabad with a view to providing research facilities to social scientists of the region and to undertake various promotional activities on behalf of the Council. During the year under review, the Northern Regional Centre was set up on the campus of the Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. Earlier the functions in respect of the Northern Regional Centre were being performed by the Social Science Documentation Centre of the ICSSR.

8.02 The Western Regional Centre is situated on the new campus of the University of Bombay, Vidyanagari, Kalina, Bombay-400029. Its two buildings, consisting of a wing of the Bombay University New Campus Library and hostel-cum-guest house, have been completed and are in use now.

8.03 During the year under review, the Centre undertook various activities for fulfilling its objectives, viz. (1) visits of foreign scholars, (2) organization of courses in research methodology and of workshops and seminars, (3) award of study grants, (4) acquisition of library materials, and (5) acceptance of personal and institutional libraries on deposit basis.

8.04 Taking advantage of the visits of overseas social scientists invited by the ICSSR, the Centre arranged seminars, workshops and lectures for the general benefit of the research workers and interested persons. Research methodology courses were organized in the field of Sociology and Social Anthropology at the University of Poona. A three-day seminar on Political Theory was conducted in November 1975 at the Centre of Post-graduate Instructions and Research, Panaji, Goa. The Programme of extension lecture series was also continued during the year.

8.05 During the year, the Centre awarded Study Grants to 26 research scholars; and of these 20 scholars availed of this facility.

8.06 The Eastern Regional Centre at Calcutta maintained its activities with regard to allotment of Study Grants, Organizing seminars and lectures and also programmes for foreign visitors sponsored by the ICSSR. Study grants were sanctioned to 12 research scholars. The Centre improved its library facilities by the acquisition of a considerable number of reference books. In addition, some archival materials were collected in micro-films with regard to specific research themes viz. (i) Development of Leftwing Movements in India, and (ii) International Press Conference.

8.07 The Eastern Centre collaborated with the Geography Department of Calcutta University for a joint symposium on "Problems of Agricultural Growth in India" held in February 1976 in which scholars from all over India participated.

8.08 The Centre continued to share its office accommodation with the Centre for Studies in Social Sciences, Calcutta in Sir Jadunath Sarkar's house. This arrangement is cramping the activities of the Centre. It is therefore proposed to acquire a vacant plot adjacent to the present house and construct a building there for the Centre.

8.09 The Southern Regional Centre is located at Hyderabad on the campus of Osmania University. The Centre added two new blocks to its already existing buildings, one for conferences and seminars and the other for the specific use of research scholars. The Centre continued its activities, broadly categorised into (i) Documentation and bibliographic work, (ii) Promotional activities, and (iii) Study grants. In the field of documentation and bibliographic work, the Centre completed the compilation of bibliography of Telugu books of the major libraries in the state; and in respect of Urdu bibliography, it covered several major libraries in India.

In addition, work was done in collaboration with the Urdu Promotion Board at the National Library, Calcutta, Indian Institute of Islamic Studies, Delhi, Indian Council of Cultural Relations, New Delhi, Darul Uloom, Deoband, Naovatul Ulema, Lucknow, Khuda Baksh Library, Patna, and Raza Library, Rampur.

8.10 The Centre continued its programme of organizing visits and lectures of the social scientists to Hyderabad and other places during the year. It acquired over 200 new and old books in Telugu and Urdu on social sciences, besides some books on research methodology in social sciences. It also continued to subscribe to about 200 journals in English, Telugu and Urdu which were not available in the Osmania University and collected some back numbers of social science journals in English, Telugu and Urdu. The Oral History Programme was developed further and 11 old revolutionaries and national leaders were covered in the programme. Selected bibliographies on Panchayati Raj in Andhra Pradesh, on Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes, on Andhra Pradesh politics and on growth of the Telugu Press were prepared during the year at the request of research scholars.

8.11 The Centre initiated the programme of compilation of a brochure on "Research Specialisation available in Social Science Departments in Southern Universities" and obtained relevant information from 13 universities in the region. It also started the publication of Andhra Pradesh Recorder and Digest in mimeographic form with a view to bringing to the notice of social scientists, in brief, important items concerning developments in Andhra Pradesh.

8.12 Study grants to 33 research scholars were sanctioned. A grant-in-aid was given for the publication of a Telugu Quarterly in social science entitled Prasarita which is published by the State Book Club.

8.13 Short-term foundation courses in research methodology were conducted by the Centre in collaboration with social science departments of different universities at Hyderabad, Tirupati and Trivandrum. In addition, the Centre organized two orientation courses, one at the Post-graduate Centre, Warangal for college teachers teaching the newly introduced topic in the subject of Economics under the Osmania

University jurisdiction and the second at Guntur for the Post-graduate college teachers in Commerce.

8.14 The Centre collaborated with the Madras Institute of Development Studies in organizing a meeting of the Heads of Departments of social sciences of the southern universities where programmes for improving social science research in the region were discussed.

8.15 An inter-disciplinary research methodology workshop for southern universities on research in regional planning with special reference to attack against poverty was organized in collaboration with the Madras Institute of Development Studies. Besides, a colloquium on the problems of Indian Ocean was organized in January 1976 at Hyderabad in collaboration with the Institute of Asian Studies.

8.16 The Northern Regional Centre which was established during the year under review is located at the Jawaharlal Nehru University campus in accordance with the policy of the ICSSR to locate such Centres at the campus of the universities or social science research institutes. Incidentally, it is one of the several ways by which collaboration between the Jawaharlal Nehru University and the Indian Council of Social Science Research has been established in respect of documentation and bibliographic services to be provided on a national basis.

8.17 The management of the Centre is vested in the Vice-Chancellor, Jawaharlal Nehru University, who also heads the Advisory Committee for the Centre. The Chairman is assisted by a Director of the Centre who is appointed by the ICSSR in consultation with the Chairman from amongst the professors of the University in social science disciplines for a period of two years. Prof. Yogendra Singh has been appointed as the first Honorary Director of the Northern Centre, Shri Girja Kumar, Librarian of the Jawaharlal Nehru University, has been appointed Honorary Joint Director.

During the year under review, 90 study grants were sanctioned to students coming from 33 Universities.

8.20 For the permanent housing of the Northern Centre, one floor of the Library Building of the Jawaharlal Nehru University has been earmarked. The entire cost of this floor will be paid by the ICSSR. The floor shall be the property of the University but the ICSSR will have the permanent occupancy right in them for purposes of the Regional Centre.

8.21 A meeting of the Directors of the Regional Centres of the ICSSR was held at Bombay on the 21st March 1976 to review the progress of the Centres during the last few years and to chalk out programmes for the future.
